These carefully sculpted glass elements, available in various colors, sizes and finishes, showcase a delicate balance between transparency and opacity, allowing for the interplay of light and shadow. As light passes through the tubes of glass, it is refracted, creating a breathtaking display of radiance that illuminates the surrounding spaces.

The intriguing Addis Lighting Collection is a modern-day interpretation of the iconic mid-century Tronchi fixtures. Inspired by its predecessor's sleek lines and geometric shapes, the Addis features a Polished Chrome or Aged Brass metal frame that exudes sophistication and style. Its unique design showcases transparent tiers of textured Tronchi glass tubes, forming a mesmerizing 5-point rounded star shape.

Farris comprises solid thick glass rods and a sleek metal frame in a Aged Brass finish. The open frame at the top and the bottom of the fixture is airy and light, while the generous diameter of the glass rods gives a substantial and luxurious feel. The center rod that holds the candelabra light adds another dimension and visual interest. The soft slope of the top rods that connect to the upper canopy adds ease and elegance to the overall profile of the Farris fixtures.
